

Assistant Professor of Music
Tenure-Track
Ref # FAC10-008
Feinstein College of Arts & Sciences

Review of applications will begin November 15, 2009 and will continue until the position is filled.

Description and Responsibilities:

The Department of Music invites applications from candidates who have experience teaching a wide variety of music courses, and can show the flexibility and breadth necessary to teach an introductory course on fine and performing arts for the University General Education program. Candidates should also demonstrate the enthusiasm to assist in the ongoing development of the University's new BA program in music.

The candidate's primary teaching responsibilities within the Music Department will include European music history, lower levels of music theory, and a course in musicianship for elementary education majors. The candidate will also be responsible for directing, arranging for, and conducting the University's fledgling Instrumental Ensemble. The ability to teach courses in world music and culture, and sections of a rock history course, is also required.

In general, all tenure-track RWU faculty must demonstrate effectiveness in the following four categories: 1) teaching; 2) academic advising and program development; 3) scholarly, professional and/or creative activities; and 4) institutional and/or community service.

Qualifications:

Applicants should have a Ph.D. in Music or a DMA degree; experience teaching courses in music history and humanities at the undergraduate level; evidence of an on-going program of scholarly and/or creative activity; and demonstrable performance ability.

Contact Person:

Please contact the search committee chair, Professor Marilyn Mair, at mmair@rwu.edu for further information.

To Apply:

Qualified applicants should submit materials electronically, including: 1) a letter of intent along with statements of teaching philosophy and research interests; 2) a current vita; 3) names and contact information of at least three references. Electronic applications should be submitted via email to:
