

Roger Williams University

SCHOOL OF JUSTICE STUDIES

The New England Association of Chiefs of Police, Inc. remains committed to the professional development of police leaders throughout the region. That commitment is enhanced by the more than decade long partnership with Roger Williams University and its Justice System Training & Research Institute. As a result of that collaboration nearly 200 participants have completed the Command Training Series: Executive Development Course at the University and returned to their community having been engaged in critical thinking about best & promising practices.

In recognition of the cooperative work between the Association and the University the John D. Coyle Scholarship at Roger Williams University was established in 2013. The purpose of the scholarship has been to provide registration fee funding for recipients, whose Chief of Police is an Active Member of the Association, to attend the annual Command Training Series: Executive Development Course.

The next scholarship awards will be made for attendance at the Fall 2017 session.
