

CAUTION!

We have a number of seagull parents with nests on campus building roofs, particularly at the Recreation Center. The seagull babies have begun to walk around in the areas around the baseball/softball fields, the Recreation Center, and the Law School, which is causing the parents to “patrol” in these areas and fly at pedestrians in an attempt to scare them away from the babies.

Please avoid the pathway between the Law School and the Recreation Center, and use the lower Law entrance when possible. Signage will be posted at these areas as a reminder. Please do not disturb or try to move the babies or their parents. Thank you for your cooperation!
